

Cal OES Internal Statewide Incident Briefing

2000 hours, July 16, 2022

(Unclassified // FOUO)

Yosemite National Park visitors in some areas below 8,000 feet (2,400 meters) will be prohibited from starting fires starting Saturday, July 16, 2022, to reduce the threat of sparking new fires inside the park where firefighters have been battling a blaze since the week before.

Weather Key Points

Regional Operations Center

Western Region

Saturday, July 16

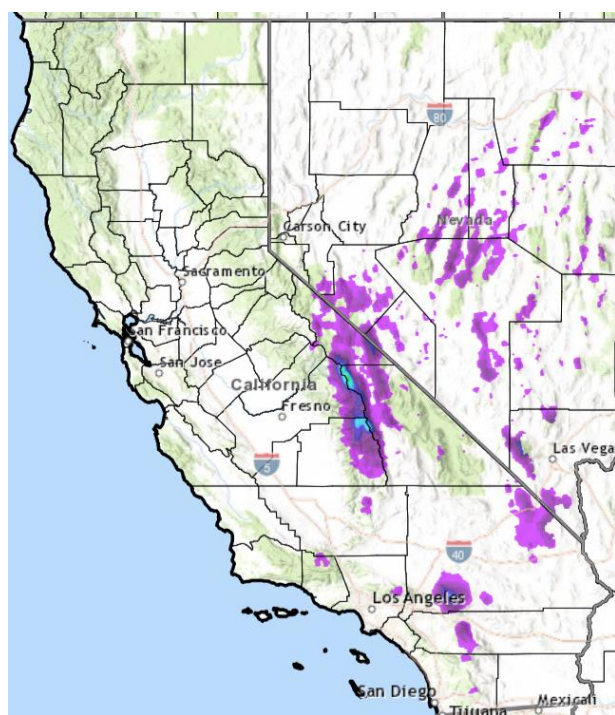

- Seasonably hot mid-July temperatures will continue for much of inland California through the weekend and into next week, with a slight cooling trend expected by mid-to-late week across the north
 - Moderate to locally high heat risk impacts will persist each afternoon through the weekend, gradually becoming confined to mainly southern California next week
 - High temperatures each afternoon will reach 95-105°F across much of the Central Valley, with readings of 105-115°F common for the southern deserts
- Similar to the past few weeks, afternoon and evening breezy winds in and around the mountains, foothills, and southern deserts will bring locally elevated fire weather conditions each day through next week
 - Critical fire weather conditions are expected to portions of Modoc and Siskiyou Counties Saturday and Sunday
- Scattered monsoon showers and thunderstorms are expected across the Sierra as well as the southern mountains and deserts through Monday
 - Widespread impacts from any storms are not expected, though locally heavy rainfall and gusty winds are possible where storms develop
